Changes:

- We removed the user profiles table and instead used put the story ids in the users table
- We did not randomly show stories in browse, instead we just created a browse page with all the stories the user hasn't contributed to
- On users' homepage, we just have a dropdown listing the ids of the stories the user contributed to instead of displaying all the stories (with links)
- Instead of displaying the recent update, it displays the base update
- Made log out button part of navigation bar instead of separate html page
- On browse, we didn't display the date
- Originally not in our design, we created an admin file to clear and recreate the tables
- We did not make a logout.html. Instead we just added a logout route in our app.py
- We changed the character count for updates from 150 to 140
- Added an error handler in flask
- Used javascript to prevent the user from creating empty titles/stories/updates
